

DDAKJI

A salesman for the Games has offered Gi-hun ₩100,000 if he can win a simple game. The salesman places a ddakji (folded paper square) on the ground and invites Gi-hun to make a second ddakji, and throw it at the first one hard enough to turn it over to the other side. The salesman provides the following two-page pattern, mentioning that the dashed lines are mountain folds, and the dotted lines are valley folds. Gi-hun makes a ddakji, and tries throwing it many times, but keeps losing. How did Gi-hun react after finally winning?
