

The Lost and Disorganized Pianist

The piano player is running late for the gig! You really have to hand it to her that she tried to scribble down the directions on her music. (Some kind of experimental “World Music” piece, based on the title made up of words in different languages and the avant-garde notation.)

Once you figure out what the directions mean you may find out why (in more ways than one) she ends up not being able to play the gig!
