

I found a website offering brand-name products at prices that seemed way too cheap to be true! Unfortunately when the goods arrived, I discovered that not all the parts were genuine...

What was advertised

What I received

Where a baby grows during pregnancy (4)      -----

Burial chamber (4)      -----

Paved areas adjoining a house (6)      -----

Art that evokes pity (6)      -----

Session of formal instruction (6)      -----

Injury (6)      -----

Cold frothy flavoured drink (5)      -----

Long, limbless reptile (5)      -----

Strong-smelling herb with feathery fronds (6)      -----

Dog shelter (6)      -----

Medieval contest between two knights on horseback (5)      -----

Horizontal beam supporting a floor or ceiling (5)      -----

Holy cup, much sought after (5)      -----

Hard seed (5)      -----

Future wife (5)      -----

Raised structure spanning a river or road (6)      -----

Considering the differences between them, perhaps I was expecting too much to believe that I'd picked up an authentic item at a bargain price?
