Maid of Honor's Toast

"Friends, family, everyone, may I have your attention, please.¹⁸ God, I am just so stupidly happy for my two best friends!² Their relationship has had its ups and downs, of course.⁴ But I love you both so much: is it weird for me to say that?¹¹ Oh, I have to admit, at one time I used to have a thing for Romeo!⁴ Now Juliet explicitly told me not to give any advice, but I think she'll appreciate this.²² Dwelling on past issues only brings up new issues.²³ Be humble, listen, and pay off your credit cards.² Always be truthful.⁵ Enjoy growing old together.¹¹ Now let's hit the buffet and keep the tunes going!⁹

- No legacy is so rich as honesty.
- Lord, what fools these mortals be!
- If music be the food of love, play on!
- The lady doth protest too much, methinks.
- The course of true love never did run smooth.
- With mirth and laughter let old wrinkles come.
- Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears.
- I do love nothing in the world so well as you: is not that strange?
- O that I were a glove upon that hand, that I might touch that cheek!
- To mourn a mischief that is past and gone is the next way to draw new mischief on.
- Have more than thou showest, speak less than thou knowest, lend less than thou owest.
